Doctor:

It is with sincere anticipation that I am announcing our upcoming seminar featuring Dr. James Forster. I have known Dr. Forster for over 25 years. He is one of the most accomplished clinicians that I know. I also knew his father, the late great Dr. Arnold Forster, one of the fathers of Applied Kinesiology, and to say that the apple doesn't fall far from the tree would be an accurate statement for sure. When I heard that Dr. James was considering lecturing, I jumped at the chance to sponsor him.

Please completely read the enclosed brochure. It will detail the seminar contents, and will also give you a brief introduction to Dr. Forster's background. Of particular note is his association with the Ramones (groups of this magnitude not only can afford the best care, they get the best care). Dr. James' mission is to share his knowledge in an integrated manner that will help you to become a better and more successful doctor, starting on Monday morning. Please note that space is limited, and given the hands on nature of this seminar (even with the assistants he will have there), we will be limiting the attendance. So please reserve your spot early.

In Health,

Jerald A. Berman
